Chicago Anarchists Coerced by Police.

Officers Take Possession of an Incendiary Meeting.

The Stars and Stripes Hauled Up in Spite of Frantic Protests.

Hang the Murderers of My Husband, Yelled the Dusky Widow of Parsons—Scenes That Almost Ended in a Riot.

By Telegraph to The Times. CHICAGO, Nov. 11.-[By the Associated Press.] The Stars and Stripes waved aloft tonight after a scene of excitement unequaled since the Haymar-ket riot. Over 1000 Anarchists and their sympathizers gathered at the West Twelfth street Turner Hall tonight to commemorate the anniversary of the execution of Spies, Parsons et al. The speeches were extremely strong and red emblems covered everything.

The climax came during the incen diary utterances of Henry Weissman, editor of a New York German trades paper. Inspector of Police Hubbard, accompanied by Lieut. Gibbons and a sqad of officers in citizens' clothing, ap proached lhe stage. Hubbard ordered the American flag placed among the flaming red banners which were conspicuous everywhere. Instantly there vas a profound sensation in the motle audience, and the police were hissed from all parts of the hall.

Mrs. Lucy Parsons shrieked out "Hang the murderers of my husband." In a second pandemonium reigned, hundreds of excited men pushing for-ward, cursing the officers and seem ingly only wanting a nod from the eaders to precipitate a bloody fight.

Nevertheless Inspector Hubbard unflinchingly ordered the suspension of the meeting until his commands were obeyed. Through the din the half a hundred police could be seen with their hands on clubs and revolvers prepared for the fight which seemed inevitable. It was fully ten minutes before order was restored.

An American flag meanwhile had been reluctantly hoisted to a place over the stage. The proceeding was only accomplished when the officers were found ready for action, and cooler heads among the audience had time to exercise some influence. The meeting had been taken completely by surprise else a more tragic result might have followed.

The leaders of the meeting asserted that they only wanted to show reverence for the men who perished at the hands of the law. When the proceed ings opened the stage was fairly buried in red bunting, while prominently in front were placed busts of Spies and Parsons, with characteristic inscriptions. The "Marseillaise" was the favorite music, and the band also rendered, "Annie Laurie," which was sung by Parsons, in jail, on the last night of his life on earth.

Editer Weissman was the first speaker, and he was fairly launched in typical harrangue, in which he dwelt on the "peaceable" nature of the Haymarket meeting, the prostitution of courts, poverty-stricken condition of the masses, etc., when the police made their entrance and the uproar occurred. This took the life out of the meeting, and the remaining speeches were very brief. It was announced, however, that another meeting would be held on Thursday night at the old-time headquarters on Lake street.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 .- By the Associated Press.] A correspondent at Rio de Janeiro cables to the Herald: "Up to the present writing there is nothing as far as can be learned here to seriously threaten the stability of Da Fonseca's dictatorship. If there is any revolt in Pernambuco, Pahia or Para, reliable information of it has not reached this city. There are, doubtless, I am given to understand, disaffected Republicans and a number of Imperialists who would like to see the monarchy re-established, but they have not as far as known here. openly pronounced against the govern-ment. The only signs of discontent the people of Rio are aware of are in Rio Grande do Sul. The revolt that has broken out there appears from such in-telligence as we have, to have been altogether of a local character. "So slight is the uprising officially regarded that the governor of the state is considered fully capable of dealing with it. He evidently thinks so himself, since he has not seen fit to make any call upon the government for assistance. It is believed that if the outbreak were so serious as to imperil his power the governor would certainly before this have asked such aid.

He said to-night that he did not think there was any chance of the revolt extending to other States; that the government was as stable as ours, and there need be no fears of a general revolution. THE FARMERS' CONGRESS.

Representative Heard Discusses the Railway Problem.

Government Control of the Roads He Considers Impossible — Resolution Adopted Calling for Appropriations for Irrigation Systems.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SEDALIA (Mo.,) Nov. 11.—[By the Associated Press.] The National Farmers' Congress reassembled at 11 this morning. A number of resolutions were introduced and referred.

Congressman Heard of Missouri de-livered an address on railway transportation. This subject, he declared, was of supreme importance to the farmer. One solution of this vexed question, he was found in the State railway commission; another method was that of controlling railroad corporations in the interest of the people through a national railway commission. Some professed to believe that railroads should be placed under Government management. Government railroad-ing, Heard believed, would be a gigan-tic failure. In the first place, the Govtic failure. In the first place, the Government would have to buy the railroads, and that would cost $1,000,000,000. That would be an impossibility, practically, because there is in circulation only $1,500,000,000. The purchase of the railroads would necessitate increasing the debt to gigantic proportions, and he did not believe the farmers or any one else wanted to go down into their pockets and pay any more debt than they are now paying.

H. S. Brown of Georgia indorsed everything that Heard had said.

Among the resolutions were the fol-

WE ARE IN

OU know us well enough to know that when we have nothing worth saying, we say nothing. If we drop a hint that is not worth taking, you will follow our example and drop it, too.

It won't take you more than a minute to make up your mind as to the value of the hint we are giving you now.

We are offering a big line of Overcoats for Both the article and the price are so unapproachable that they make what may be called an invincible combination. It is a union of the big and little-a big return for little outlay. That is the way we make extremes meet, and here's another illustration of it:

Given Away!

For the balance of this month we will give to every purchaser of a suit or overcoat, a fine walking stick. We have them in a hundred different styles. Some of them could not be bought for less than $2.00. You will find them on exhibition in our middle window.

FOR: THE: BOYS!

We always have something. Just now we are giving with every boy's suit, either a nice ebony ruler or new kind of magic brick Savings bank. Ae we said in the beginning, "We are in it," and if you take advantage of our offerings you will be "in it."

GREAT SPORT IN SIGHT.

The Outlook for Santa Barbara's Spring Meeting.

Immediate Steps to be Taken to Insure Large Purses.

The Best Horses in the State Will Take Part.

General Effort to be Made to Break Records-What Pacific Coast Horses That Line.

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 9, 1891 .- [Special Correspondence of THE TIMES.] is now assured that Santa Barbara will have the greatest spring meeting ever held in Southern California, next April, beginning about the 15th of the month. Santa Barbara is world-famed with its innumerable varieties of flowers, and in April next a carnival will be held, at

"Even the immortals
Will stop and gaze with wonder and delight."

There will be at least 2000 people rom the East that will remain until the carnival is over, and people from all over the State will come to gaze upon the horticultural sublimity of Southern California; and it is assured, upon reliable authority, that horses from such stables as Palo Alto and Santa Anita will be entered and will start in cur spring meeting. With such attractions can anyone doubt that our meet ing will be the grandest ever held in Southern California? Immediate steps will be taken to assure large purses; the track will be in record-breaking condition; accommodations will be enlarged at the track, and all the comforts within human skill will be at the call of of the great horses that will come here to face the starter's flag. The purses, for the runners and trotters, will be large, and the carnival purse for $1000 for one mile and one-eighth dash will attract all the good ones from the Pacific Coast, and the three-quarters and repeat, with a purse of at least $800, that will be called the hotel stakes, for all ages, will see some of the crack horses face the starter. As the track will be specially prepared for fast time, it is more than probable that those who aspire to early 2:30 performers, will bring many fast youngsters to enter the charmed circle. condition; accommodations will be en charmed circle.

If such wonders are to appear next year on the turf as appeared this year, what will come next? Surely the twominute trotter is near at hand. If Sunol is kept at at light work for two or three years and allowed to develop with just sufficient work to keep her in health and condition she will come near trotting in two minutes flat when she will have reached her ninth year. And if Arion, the greatest two-year-old-the world has ever seen, or will see for many years, is kept from hard, bruising work till he is 6 years old, how fast will he trot over a kite-shaped track? Who work till he is 6 years old, how fast will he trot over å kite-shaped track! Who would have thought, even a year ago, that a two-year-old would trot in 2:14½? Arion's sire, Electioneer, placed the world's record at 2:18¾ for all ages, the yearling record at 2:14½. Look at Arion's breeding, not, only his sire sired wonders, but his dam's sire, Nutword, 2:18¾, sired the greatest three-year-old pacer of the world, Manager, 2:11¼. Gaze upon what California horses have done this year. Electioneer has this year thirty-four in the charmed list, and now he has a grand total of ninety-five, with records from 2:08¼ to 2:30. Henry Villard's Short Stay in Los Angeles.

Called East by a Telegram from New York-Business Good California Lines-The Electric Road.

Henry Villard of the Northern Pacific road passed through this city in his special car yesterday morning. He pulled out almost immediately for the East over the Santa Fé route, as he is due in New York city next Tuesday. He was very anxious to remain here a few days and look over the country, but he found dispatches here calling him to New York immediately. He stated to several railroad men that he is firmly convinced that inside of two years he will be using electricity on the Northern Pacific, as he is experimenting all the while and knows what he can do. He will be out here again soon.

THE ELECTRIC COMPANY. In a few days the electric company will commence running cars on the Maple street line. This line will run from the Plaza down Los Angeles street to Wall, to Maple avenue, to the Southern Pa-cific depot near defferson street, a run of about three miles. The cars will be those heretofore used on the Pico-street line, and they will run every twelve minutes. This will constitute the fourth of the lines of the electric com-pany in operation.

The Pico, street line will be started

G. H. Abbott, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, with headquarters at San Francisco, has just headquarters at San Francisco, has just returned from a trip as far east as Baltimore. He had with him two tourist cars of forty passengers, about one-third of which go to San Francisco, a number to San Diego and Fresno, and the rest will stop in Los Angeles and surrounding country.

Mr. Abbott stated that the outlook for a heavy winter travel over the Southern Pacific is most encouraging, and there are good prospects for a

How to Utilize the Peat Lands.

A few days ago we published peat for commercial purposes. To a measurable extent we believe that this peat bed might be turned into a source of revenue, like the nitrate de-

That this peat, when properly pre-be no question. It is, in fact, largely composed of what the analyzer calls humus, and he also tells us that humus ready for assimilation, as anything that can be found or concocted. The astounding fertility of the peat lands is a constant testimonial to this fact. Crops of corn that run from 150 to 200 bushels an acre; hills of pumpkins which turn off a thousand pounds of 'fruit' to the hill; potatoes yielding

300 bushels and onions 1000 bushels to the acre, are not to be gainsayed. It would take very heavy fertilizing on ordinary land to produce such results. Time and chance have helped to demonstrate the value of this peat when it is applied to the common soil, for it is found that to a distance of 150 feet

San Diegan of last Saturday says:

Los Angeles is rapidly filling up with tourists. San Diego, with vastly superior attractions [sic] is not receiving as large a proportion of visitors as it should. It is useless to sit back and abuse Los Angeles real-estate agents or other Los Angeles people for lying on us. It is natural for them to praise their own city. It may not be right, but it is, also, to be expected that San Diego's attractions will be somewhat disparaged by them. The thing for us to do is to have a man on the spot to speak a good word for us. A first-class exhibit of San Diego's products should be maintained at a central location in Los Angeles, and a San Diego man should be there to answer questions relative to this city and county, and distribute literature descriptive of the same. Section 43 of the law authorizing the suance of bonds for street improve ments provides that where a street railway occupies a street, bonds may be issued by the superintendent of streets, which will be a lien upon so much of the track and franchise of a street railway as may be embraced in the improved portion of the street. The contem plated work on Figueroa and Pear streets is to cost 31 cents per square foot. The strip to be provided for by the railroad company is 19 feet 8 inches wide. The cost on the railroad strip would therefore be $6.20 per lineal or running foot, or $32,736 per mile. This is far in excess of the value of the street-car lines and franchises or that part of the street, and no contractor living would take the bonds in pay ment for the work. If the contract to grade and pave on each side of the railway tracks is carried out, and the raiload strip not graded, the result will be a ridge in the middle of the street. which will render it impassable from side to side, as the street-car tracks are two feet above the established grade According to the last amended laws, street-car company cannot be forced to pay cash for such improvements if i elects to come under the bonding sys tem. Cleopatra.
Of Cleopatra we have no adequate material portrait, nothing but represen tations on coins and medals, which are neither satisfactory nor conclusive, writes Theodore Child in Harper's Ba zar. But this matters not. Plutarch tells us that her beauty, without being incomparable, was most seductive, her face charming, her whole person full of grace. Dion Cassius adds that her voice was melodious, and of infinite sweet ness. And what stronger attraction is woman voice, that rarest of gifts, which holds the hearer spellbound and enchanted? Elsewhere we read that she was queen of kingfs, empress of genius, most eru-dite lady initiated into the mysteries of old Egypt, builder of temples and pal old Egypt, builder of temples and pal-aces, rival of Isis. History represents her as the superb heroine of the most dramatic love romance of antiquity. And so the name of Cleopatra has taken its place among those names, magnificent and voluptu ous, the harmonic grouping of whose syllables suggest to reverie suave, idea and luminous visions, and evokes the and luminous visions, and evokes the souvenir of delicious phantoms, glorified in turn by legend, art and history. Cleopatra is the name of one of the great lovers, beautiful according to the fiesh, of one of the women born to charm men—Eva, Lilith, Deillah, Salome, Helen, Aspasia, Theodora. Of the brief association of atoms that formed these creatures there resulted some-thing ideal, which remains in the dreams of poets and haunts the mem-ory of mankind. #### AGAINST HOME-RULE. Liberal Unionists Make Capital Out of the Late Irish Riots.

London, Nov. 11 .- [By Cable and Associated Press.] At a conference of the Liberal Unionists Association at Manchester Sir Henry James presided. Sir Henry was Attorney General during Gladstone's last administration, but he was and is opposed to Gladstone's schemes for establishment of Home-rule for Ireland. In his speech opening the meeting, Sir Henry claimed that recent experiences in Ireland, referring to the serious factional fight last week, proved that the policy of the Liberal Unionists was the only correct one.

A letter from Joseph Chamberlain was read. He said that Gladstonians had lost confience in the Home-rule movement, and they were trying to pass a bill to establish Home-rule, sandviched between more alluring pro posals.

The Duke of Argyle, in speaking to a motion to support the general policy of the government, described Gladstone as "a fanatic who was incapable of argu-ment." His followers, according to the Duke, were mere puppets.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—[By the Associated Press.] The closest inquiry today failed to elicit any further information respecting the details of the agreement reached by the United States and Great Britain to submit the Bering Sea case to arbitration. It is learned, however, that the treaty has not yet received the signatures of representa tives of the United States and Great Britain, for, although all the points to be submitted to arbitration have been agreed upon, the method of arbitration is still a matter open to discussion This must be arranged and included in the terms of the treaty. It is believed by persons in authority that this re-maining point will be adjusted before the meeting of the Senate and that the arbitrators will have defined the exact rights of the United States and Great the fact that it is in to wise responsible for the seizure of the Sayward, which was made by orders of its predecessors. The legal contest begun by counsel for Great Britain to have declared illegal the seizures of sealing vessels in Bering Sea was continued in the United States Supreme Court today, when the case of the American schooner Sylvia Handy, seized in 1887 for seal poach ing, was argued. The case is similar in nearly all phases, to the celebrated Sayward case, except that the vessel is American and not Canadian. The case comes here on an appeal from the California courts and not on a petition for a writ of prohibition, as in the Sayward case, but the legal aspect is the same.

perance Union, and it is to the lasting shame of England that she has carried intemperance into her Indian colonies and fostered the opium traffic.

The report of the Executive Committee, embodying the constitution and bylaws, was accepted, and a declaration of principles, which has the following for a preamble, was also adopted:

In the love of God and humanity, we, representing the Christian women of the world, band ourselves together with the solemn conviction that our united faith and works, with God's blessing, will prove helpful in creating a strong public sentiment in favor of personal purity of life, including total abstinence from the use of all narcotic poisons; protection of the home by outlawing the traffic in alcoholiquors, opium, tobacco and impurity; suppression by law of gambling and Sunday desecrations; enfranchisement of women of all nations, and the establishment of courts of national and international arbitration, which shall banish war from the world.

The declaration is in the nature of a pledge binding members to work for the purposes of the union, and asking all others to make common cause against liquor and narcotics.

The plan of world's work, including a provision for half a dozen Christian temperance missionaries in foreign lands, was approved and a provision made for the collection of one-half cent per annum tax on members of the manufacture. per annum tax on members of the unon for the maintenance of the work.

AMERICAN BANKERS.

The National Association Meets at New Orleans.

An Interesting Letter from Secretary Foster on Silver.

He Takes a Hopeful View of the White Metal's Future.

A Paper on "Recent Rallway Legislation and Its Effect Upon Finances"-The Course of Reckless Lawmakers Condemned.

Ru Telegraph to The Times. New Orleans, Nov. 11.- By the Associated Press.] The American Bank-ers' Association began its seventeenth annual convention today with about 300 delegates in attendance. Senator Randall delivered an address of wel-come. It was a brief, but patriotic address, referring to the necessity for a fixed standard of values and giving the delegates a warm welcome.
After the president's annual address,

John Jay Knox read the report of the Executive Committee. The principal matter was the request to State associations for representation. The matter was finally referred back to the Executive Committee which first reported adversely, in order that it might hear the views of all State associations and and report back next year.

The Committee on Protection was authorized to prepare a plan for protection against and the punishment of criminals, and committees on Schools, on Finance and Economy were also ap-deaths and resignations.

A letter from Hon. Charles Foster, Secretary of the Treasury, was then read. It dealt with the operation of the financial legislation of Congress.

the financial legislation of Congress. After reciting the provisions of that legislation he says:

The amount of silver bullion purchased with Treasury notes under provisions of the new law, from August 13, 1890, to November 1, 1891, has aggregated 66, 588,536 fine ounces, costing $68,626,585, an average cost of $1.03 per fine ounce. From this silver $27,848,475 has been contact of the property of the of the pro coined, and the remainder is stored in the shape of fine bars in vaults of the mints as a an average cost of $1.03 per fine ounce. From this silver $27.848,475 has been coined, and the remainder is stored in the shape of fine bars in vaults of the mints as a reserve against treasury notes outstanding. While it is true that the amount of money in circulation in this country at the present time is greater than at any previous period in our history and more per capita than any leading commercial nation of the world, with the single exception of France, I am of the opinion, owing to our rapid growth in population, in wealth, and the extraordinary developments in all kinds of business, that a yearly increase in our circulation, somewhat proportionate to our growth in population, is imperatively demanded. The issue of treasury notes under the act affords such increase of a perfectly convenient and sound currency based dollar for dollar upon the cost-value of silver bullion, redeemable on demand in gold coin, and with the pledge of the Government to maintain it at par.

Another object of the act was to provide a home market for the silver products of the United States by requiring the purchase of a quantity of silver approximating the monthly product of our mines. Under the operations of this law silver advanced from 96 cents per fine ounce on the 1st of January, 1889, to $1.21 on August 19, 1890. That it has again retrograded in price is owing in part to the fact that, because of the liberal policy exercised by the Treasury in the purchase of silver, both is to the quantity purchased and the price paid, large amounts of foreign silver were attracted to this market. Other causes, which I cannot enlarge upon, operated to produce this result, prominent among which is a large failing off in shipments of silver form London to India during the first nine months of the present calendar year show a reduction of $17.00.000 as compared with the same period of prior year, while shipments of silver to China show even a greater decrease.

It is claimed by those conversant with the product and movement of silver that w portance to maintain some fixed ratio in coinage between the two metals. The new silver act is an important step in that direction: First, because the compulsory coinage and issue of silver dollars of less intrinsic value than their normal value is repealed; second because it provides for a repealed; second, because it provides for a much larger absorption of silver by this country than heretofore for currency purposes, and because the new law declares that it is the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals at a parity with each other. It seems to me that the act under consideration is a decided improvement upon the provisions of the act of 1878, which it repeals, in that it furnishes a sound currency to meet the growing wants of our country, and has a tendency to reduce the difference in the value between the two metals and thus help restore the equilibrium so much desired

The topic of discussion today was "The Banking System and Currency of the Future." George S.Coe of New York opened the discussion with an able pa-per on the matter. John Jay Knox read a lengthy and able paper on the same subject. In the course of his speech he devoted some space to the question of permanent national banking circula-tion, presenting in a somewhat modified form, the propositions he laid be-fore the committee of the House of Rep-

Prof. Chadley of Yale read a paper upon "Recent Railroad Legislation and Its Effect Upon Finances." He said whatever causes a shrinkage in rail whatever causes a shrinkage in rail-road values is of importance to finan-ciers, because railroad securities are more important than any other line of investments. Loss of 1 per cent, in interest on railroad securities means a fall in the capital valuation greater than the whole wheat and cotton crop than the whole wheat and cotton crop of the country. Since the passage of the Interstate Commerce law, the systems west of Chicago have shrunk in value $60,000,000 or more than 25 per cent, of the value of their stocks. The value $60,000,000 or more than 25 per cent. of the value of their stocks. The Interstate Commerce law which has been supposed to be the end of the struggle for railroad control, was only a beginning. Individual States went further and did many things with less wisdom than the Interstate Commerce Commission. Finally the prohibition of pools prevented railroads from taking measures in their own defense. The results of such legislation had shown an almost entire stoppage of railroad construction in States like Iowa, whose Legislation has been reckless. Local shippers want low rates, but they still more want plenty of railroad service, and will not persist to be such as the states of of railroad service, and will not persis in legislation which will prevent them from getting it. It is to a process of this kind, rather than to the action of courts, that the investor must look for

STALKING DRUMMING GROUSE.

Playing a "Sneak" on the Feathered Drummer of the Forest. [Forest and Stream.] I cannot tell you how to stalk a drummer successfully, no more than I can teach you on paper how to cast a fly on one of our mountain streams and catch the wary treut, but I can tell you how the wary trout, but I can tell you how my last grouse was killed, and then my story is ended. Our grouse season opened Thursday, October 1. Long before the frost had melted from the house roofs or the fog had lifted from the lowlands I had climbed the western hills in search of grouse. For two the lowlands I had climbed the western hills in search of grouse. For two hours? I hunted carefully and had seen but one bird, but he had business elsewhere before I could interview him. I had left the high ground, where game seemed to be scarce, and had gone into the bottom. Working my way around the foot of the hill I tried to get a shot at a couple of large hawks that were screaming and keeping up a running fight with a flock of crows. I knew there ought to be birds in that locality, so I sat down to rest and to meditate on the uncertainty of a grouse dinner. In a very short time I heard an old drummer, but the wind and the racket kept up by the crows and hawks prevented my locating him. I sat still until he had drummed three times, when I conhad drummed three times, when I concluded he was in a pine thicket on the hill above me. Taking off my hat, which was rather conspicuous, and stuffing it into my game pocket, I proceeded cautionsly in the direction of the music. I concluded from the sound that he was within 100 yards of me, and when I had gone about one-fourth of that distance I sat down. I had but a moment to wait I sat down. I had but a moment to wait until I heard the bird again, and before he had struck a dozen beats I was stealing upon him. I soon located him in a heavy thicket above me, and just over the brow of the hill, so that I might get within a few yards of him without his seeing me. I crept close to the top of the hill, and secreted myself behind a big log, where in a very short time I heard the thunder within thirty feet of me. I could almost feel the wind from I could almost feel the wind from his wings, and my heart tried to get up into my throat. Placing the root of a fallen tree between the bird and myself, I made a few short steps and stopped. Just in front of me and behind the root Mysterious Attempt to Burn a Firststreet Building.

A Fire Which Might Have Resulted in Loss of Life—No Reason Known for the Act—The Case Being Investigated.

The police are investigating a peculiar case of incendiarism which occurred yesterday morning. Between 5 and 6 o'clock the occupants of the two-story building at No. 311 East First street discovered a fire in the stairway leading up from the street, and gave the alarm. The fire blazed up fiercely for a few minutes and then died out, when the people returned, and an officer made an investigation. It was discovered that a hole had been knocked in the plastering on the side of the steps, the laths cut out, and a quantity of coal oil poured in the hole, running down into a vacant store below. There was no draft, and in consequence the fire went out when the oil was consumed, doing no damage beyond smoking the walls. It was also discovered that a piece of weather boarding near the ground on the outside of the house, had been broken off, and a quantity of coal oil poured over the planking and joists, but for some reason this had not been fired.

The police are greatly puzzled over the case, as no motive can be discovered for the outrage. The two stores on the ground floor are vacant, and the upper story is occupied by an invalid woman, her two children and aged mother, who are in poor circumstances, and have not a dollar's insurance on their belongings. The building is the property of Judge A. M. Stephens, and is insured for only $850, less than half what it is worth. what it is worth

One peculiar feature about the case is that several incendiary fires have occurred in the vicinity, the most serious of which was on the 4th of July A livery stable which adjoins the building on the west side was fired, but nothing was discovered positively as to the perpetrators, although the police investigated the case, and at one time it was thought the guilty parties would be arrested, but when it came to the test the person furnishing the informa-tion backed down and nothing could be

The Newsboys' Home is the next

The Newsboys' Home is the next building on the East Side, and it was in the alley-way between that the second lot of coal was found, but no one about this place saw anything suspicious.

About the only plausible theory is that the deed was committed by some boy or boys with a mania for firing houses, as was the case with the youthful fire-bug who caused such havoc in the southern part of the city some months ago, or else it was done by some one who mistook the building for the one who mistook the building for the home, and fired the building by mis take.

The police will do everything in their over to solve the mystery and bring the perpetrators to justice. The outrage was a peculiarly fiendish one, for the reason that had the fire gained any headway escape would have been cut off, and it is more than probable that there would have been loss of life, as it would have been impossible to get it would have been impossible to get the women and children out.

Fire Commun.

The Fire Commissioners met yesterday morning, and decided to accept the two new chemical engines. D. Desmond offered to remodel his house on Main street, opposite Third street, for one of the chemical engines. and rent it for two years at $100 per month. Filed. Mr. Stetson moved that one of the semical engines be placed near the Mr.

Plaza. Carried. The Chief was instructed to look for a location for hose carriage near First street and Belmont avenue, and for the remaining chemical engine at Sixth, near Pearl street.

The Chief reported he had suspended F. Dolerty, callman of engine No. 1. His action was unanimously sustained.

Gypsum is not a fertilizer in the sens that phosphoric acid and nitrogen or ammonia are used. It is simply sul-phuric acid and lime, forming the sul-phate of lime, and, by its presence in the soil and affinity for water, assists in forming chemical combinations that furnish food for the plants from ma-terial already there. It is valuable as an absorbent of ammonia.—Exchange.

Comparison of maps shows that the Atlantic coast from Barnegat inlet twelve miles southward, known as Long Beach, has in thirty-two years retreated 345 feet —more than one-eighth of a mile. Surveys of Cape May county demonstrate that within the last century the shore along it has receded threa-ounters of a mile.

One curious feature of these alteration of the coast line by the encroachment of the seas is found in the exposure by the advancing waters of ancient meadows and forests long buried. In this manner have disclosed to view old cedar swamps and thus a singular industry—actual min ing for timber—has been created.

At several points in eastern New Jersey logs, s nd and fit for use, are found submerged in what have now be-come salt marshes. Many of the trees thus exhumed were forest giants. In the Great Cedar swamp, on the creek of the same name, the trunks reach a diameter of

CAUSE OF THE RECEDING LINE The cause of all this is that the Atlantic and Gulf coasts are actually sinking, and the rate at which they are going down is estimated by the official geologist of New Jersey at two feet per century. Now, the general seaward slope of the edge of the continent is about six feet to the mile, so that the sinking of each 100 years given. continent is about six feet to the mile, so that the sinking of each 100 years gives a third of a mile of lowland to the ocean. This would seem to be rather less than the rate of encroachment indicated by comparison of maps made at successive periods. Modern geologic science has ascertained that the entire crust of the earth is in a condition of maps made acquisition of such sensitive conditions.

that the entire crust of the earth is in a condition of such sensitive equilibrium that the taking of weight from one part of it to another brings about elevation of the portion from which the weight is removed and produces a corresponding depression of the portion where it is added. The rivers which empty into the Atlantic from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras and along the shore of the Gulf carry out into the ocean each year billions of tons of material, which is thus deposited outside the ocean's edge. The weight transferred causes a steadily is thus deposited outside the ocean's edge.

CHANGES IN THE EAST. Once upon a time this terrace was all above the water, the east shore of the con-tinent had a very different shape, there was a deep sea close to the coast, and the localities where now are situated New York, Philadelphia and Boston, were far inland. Gradually, owing to the causes I have mentioned, this great terrace has sunk so that ships are sailing over what was a few thousands of years ago dry land. So short a time, from the geological point of view, has been required to effect this change that the beds of the Hudson, the Potomac and other great streams are still deep channels cut out of the terrace, a sufficient period not having elapsed for filling deep channels cut out of the terrace, a sufficient period not having elapsed for filling them up with detritus.

The process by which this was accomplished is steadily and progressively going on. Each year the Altantic shore lineand the same is true of the Gulf coast—is farther westward by an average distance of a rod. For each century there is a loss of one-third of a mile to the edge of the continent. How long is it going to be at this rate before the eastern coastal plain of the United States is submerged beneath the ocean, together with all its populous cities and fertile fields?

These plains, originally fashioned by the sea, the ocean is reclaiming for its own. Its octopus arms are seizing them in their embrace, and day by day, month by month, year by year, generation by generation, the mouster is creeping farther and farther inland. Its power is too great for puny man to oppose successfully; he can only slowly retreat before the invasion.—Interview in Washington Star.

Prior to the opening of the fair on Tues day night the Pasadena band played several selections in front of the hall. It was the first public appearance of this organization, and it is not saying too much to assert that the music was rendered in a manner which far surpassed the expectations of the most sanguine of the mu-sicians' triends. Pasadena has a band now of which she may well be proud, and all that is necessary to insure the success of the organization is liberal support from the citizens. Tuesday evening the Palomares was brilliant with light and flowers and smiling brilliant with light and flowers and smiling faces and rich costumes, the occasion being a reception given by Mrs. Rosenfeld, in honor of the marriage of her daughter, Ida, to Lieut. Col. J. L. Howland, which occurred on the 17th of last month. At about 8:30 the guests began to assemble, and they kept pouring in until the beauty and gallantry of all Pomona were there. From the waiting parlor the guests were escorted by Messrs. John Dole, Jay Spence, W. E. Stone, Arthur Dole and Walter Lewis to the reception parlors and introduced Leslie W. Sprague, the Unitarian ministers.

Mrs. Rosenfeld wore a costume of black embroidered mull with point lace and La France roses and diamonds; Mrs. M. E. Howland's dress was of black lace with trimmings of black and gold chiffon, cloth of gold roses; Mrs. J. L. Howland, the bride, wore a handsome costume of corded silk entrain, with trimmings of embroidered mull with point lace and La Gold roses; Mrs. J. L. Howland, the bride, wore a handsome costume of corded silk entrain, with trimmings of embroidered chiffon, she wore no jewels or ornaments; Rev. Mrs. Sprague wore black grenadine over black silk and Jacqueminot roses. The receiving party, as they stood surrounded by banks of beautiful flowers and smiled upon their friends as they greeted them, made a most beautiful picture. The decorations were very fine, the display of roses being magnificent in its profusion and beauty. Palms and evergreens and chrysanthemums were used in abundance and in great taste; but the soul of the decorations was seen in the rose buds, of which the major part were La France. Refreshments were served in the large dining hall, andit, too, was beautifully decorated. The display-of-palm leaves was pretty, and the large monogram "H. JAPANE

The ladies of the M. E. Church gave a Japanese tea at the vacant room in the Bartlett Block on Tuesday evening. The decorations were principally designs wrought of chrysanthemums, the Japanese national flower. In the show windows were miniature landscapes consisting of gardens of chrysanthemums, and the three booths and ticket stand were almost covered with this flower, while suspended from the celling were several large Japanese umbrellas covered with the same flower. In the middle of the room was an octagonal booth from which tea was served in tiny Japanese cups. On the left was a popcorn and candy booth, and on the right a booth where nuts were sold. The tea-booth was covered with green bamboo, and from this and from cords about the room were suspended Japanese lanterns. The attendance was large, but some got weary standing, as they were, most of them, compelled to do, or sit Jap fashion upon the floor.

[THE TIMES conveys news to Santa Bar-bara twenty-four hours ahead of the San Francisco papers. The branch office and agency is at No. 713 State street, where ad-vertisements, orders for the paper and news items may be left.]

THE TIMES correspondent, in compan with J. T. Johnson, president of the Board of School Trustees, paid a visit to the High school yesterday forenoon. They first visited the class and laboratory, presided over by Prof Leslie, the teacher of natural history, astronomy and physics. This is a busy and interesting apartment, and looks more like a workshop than a schoolroom. After leaving this class, the visitors called on Prof. Knepper, the city superintendent.
Prof. Knepper seemed to be "at home" in the schoolroom, as well as being a competent organizer. After spending some time here Prof. Ostrom's classroom was visited, where a very bright and intelligent company of young women and men were recting history by topics. A return to Prof. Les-lle's room and the visitors took their de-parture.

This set of supplies will cost about $1.500, and when they are placed in the rooms will constitute one of the best equipped laboratories on the Pacific Coast.

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

A DISTRESSING ACCIDENT. A remarkable and most distressing acci-dent happened at the corner of State and Figueroa streets here about noon yesterday. The Misses Alexander and Douglass were driving down State street in a phaeton and, as they were crossing Figueroa street, Miss Emma Crowell came west on that street at a lively pace on her young, black saddle horse. The horse seemed beyond her control and was "running away." He dashed into State street just as the convexance mentioned was passing, and yond her control and was "running away."
He dashed into State street just as the conveyance mentioned was passing, and seemed intent on turning down the street in the same direction as the carriage, and did make the attempt, but lost his footing on the hard, asphalt pavement, while the conveyance was in front of him, and fell head-long against it.

The blow was terrific; the carriagehorse was knocked down, the phaeton overturned, the occupants thrown out, and Miss Douglass severely hurt.

The saddle horse clambered to his feet, and turned to cross the street with his fair rider still hanging to the stirrup, but after a few jumps were taken the fastenings gave way, and Miss Crowell was left lying in the street,

A Ludicrous Incident in a New York Restaurant.

Restaurant.
[New York Commercial Advertiser.]
When stopping in town but for a day, or briefer period, Gen. Benjamin F. Butler has long been accustomed to take his meals in Cedar street, at one of those small and unpretentious but excel-lent little cafés peculiar to that part of the city.

On an early morning recently the General appeared at the café for breakfast. The proprietor of the place, well aware of the General's epicurean abilities, enjoyed a long-time privilege of conversing with his patron regarding new edibles in the market and subjects of like nature. In the course of the chat it was remarked by the proprietor that by being at Fulton market early that morning he was fortunate in getting some sheepshead fish, which, at the time of the occurrence, were noted as much for their rarity as their toothsomeness. His supply was engaged that as much for their rainty as their tooth-someness. His supply was engaged that day for the dinner of some prominent insurance men, but if the General was willing to carry two away with him the proprietor might be able to send to the market and get them. Gen. Butler would only be too pleased, and Cornelius, the chief bartender and right-hand man of the place, was dispatched to Fulton Market to prepare for Gen. Butler two of the finest sheepshead fish obtainable. Now, Cornelius well knew two things. First, that the real sheepsheads were sometimes used for making an imitation oxtail soup, and second, that his employer bought his meats at Washington Market and not at Fulton Market.

So Cornellus disobeyed instructions, and purchased at Washington Market in Jacob Washington Washington Washington Market in Jacob Washington Was

The ridiculous aspect of the affair, and the puzzled expression of poor Cornelius's face were too much for both the General and employer. Explanations followed, and when the General finished his meal and depract mid the finished his meal and departed mid the fog of the early morning, he carried under his arm a neat bundle containing the desired fish. He considers that it leaves our Government in a position where it can be called upon to pay damages to every other government which is defending itself against a civil insurrection.

If any citizens of the United States see fit to furnish munitions of war to the party in revolt, it is powerless to prevent the transactions, and yet the Government may be called to account for it afterward. The actions, and yet the Government may be called to account for it afterward. The President is now contemplating a recommendation in his message to Congress that the statutes be amended so.as to make it unlawful for private parties to render such aid to an unrecognized faction at war with a power friendly to ourselves. He would like also to have an amendment to the statutes or a constitutional amendment, as might seem best, clothing the Executive with authority to check by proclamation any preparations in apparent violation of the neutrality laws.

The difficulties of the administration with the law left in its present condition, are enhanced by the news from Brazil. In that country, if the revolutionists organize a strong movement there will be a demand, undoubtedly, for arms and ammunition, which this country can supply. What adds to the complication is that whereas in the Chilean affair our Government was privately advised from the outset that the Constitutional party had a good chance of winning the fight. In the case of Brazil all its information is favorable to the President.

Colored Literary Society.

Pursuant to call for a public meeting, which was read in the African Methodist Episcopal Church last Sunday night from Thomas Pearson, with a view to organizing a literary so-ciety among its young people. Quite a number of the leading colored literary lights of the city assembled last evening at the spacious parlors of W. W. Gray, No. 124 San Pedro street, and temporarily organized as follows: Chairman, J. H. Hughes; secretary, J. Y. Brown; chaplain, Elder J. Pointer; librarian, Mrs. ian, Mrs. I. S. Clarkson; pro-ne committee, Mrs. J. Tnomson, Mrs. Clarence Cole, Mrs. Robert Jones, and R. F. Pointer. The meeting then adjourned to meet again next Thursday evening at the African Methodist Episcopal Church, at which time a perma-nent organization will be effected.

The Telephone Company has under consideration three pieces of real estate. Just as soon as the franchise is granted the company to put their wires underground a suitable lot will be bought, a handsome building erected and underground work will actually commence. The company proposes to put in underground wires, underground cables, new switchboard all of latest pattern. We will spend over $150,000 in the city limits with in two years."

The aggregate shown for the corr crop is 1,990,000,000 bushels for the entire country. This is about 500,000,000 bushels more than in 1890, and 128,000,000 below the officially esti-123,000,000 below the omicially estimated production in 1889, when the total was 2.113,000,000 bushels. But there is a dark side to this great corn crop. The estimated average yield per acre is only 25 ½ bushels. The average yield for the seven years preceding this is only 23 ½ bushels. This means that much probably half, of this magnificent crop of nearly 2,000,000,000 bushels was produced without 1 cent of profit to the growers.—Exchange.

IN A QUANDARY.

Looking for a Harbor to Dis-charge Her Cargo. Capt. Pardie, of the British ship Kirkcudbrightshire, appears to be in a quondary as to where he will take his ship to discharge her cargo. It will be remembered that the ship above men-tioned was reported among the arrivals at San Pedro November 9, with a cargo of cement and glass for Whittier, Fuller & Co., Los Angeles, having made the voyage from Antwerp in 115 days.

The original destination of the ship was Redondo, but as Capt. Pardie had never heard of that famous harbor, and never heard of that famous harbor, and being a cautious navigator, he decided to drop his anchor in San Pedro Bay and make a trip to Redondo by rail.

After due examination of Redondo wharf fadilities Capt. Pardu declares that he will not under any circumstances take his ship there without positive orders from the owners to do so. The consiguees. Whittier, Fuller & Co., object to having the cargo shipped or object to having the cargo shipped or handled by the Southern Pacific Com-pany, and there being no other route to ship by here, as yet, it is not unlikely that the ship will have to go to San Diego, where the cargo can be shipped to Los Angeles by the Santa Fé Rail-road.

A project is on foot to handle the cargo via the Terminal Railway, notwithstanding that there is neither wharf, lighters nor tugboat to work with, but as yet no definite course has been decided on.

The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will take place tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Ex-Mayor Workman of the Terminal road has been invited to be present and speak on the question of another trans-continental railway for Los Angeles. Mr. Workmun has just returned from a trip to the East. While in Utah he made investigation into the resources of the section lying between Los An-geles and Salt Lake, and is ready to give the members of the Chamber of C. mmerce a clear idea of the advant-ages which will accrue to this section from a completion of this proposed line. He will also tell of his conference with railway men in the East, and explain what may be hoped for in the immediate

Several important amendments to the constitution will be voted upon at this meeting. A number of new members have been proposed for election, and various and interesting questions are to come before the meeting for discussion. The exhibit room will be opened and lighted for visitors during the evening. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

DR. WOH,

The Eminent Chinese Physician.

Dr. Woh's life work has been from early youth one of persistent and untiring observation, study and investigation, as fully as lay in his power to perfect himself in all branches of the art of healing human sickness and disease. Born in Chins, of nfluential parents, of a family whose ancestors have been for generations deservingly enowned as leading physicians, Dr. Woh naturally followed in the footsteps of his fathers. In China he has practiced his profession for several years, being at one number of patients, his wonderful and many cures, and the great list of letters from healer of sickness and all diseases.

For a long time I have been suffering with bladder and kidney troubles. No doctoring or medicines seemed to do me good. I consulted the best physicians and surgeons in Los Angeles city. They gave me morphine and drugs, but no religit could I obtain. After suffering great pain and having my passage almost entirely clogged. I fourteen days ago began using Dr. Woh's medicines. Today I am perfectly well. I do consider Dr. Woh the most successful physician in Southern Callfornia.

In Cleveland, O., many months ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, terminating in asthma. The doctors said there was no hope of my recovery, but that a change to California might prolong my life. February last I came to San Bernardino and doctored with three physicians but obtained no relief, finally Dr. Woh was recommended to me by a friend. I took his medicines and followed his directions and today I am perfectly well.
